A congratulatory handshake, the awarding of diplomas, a farewell party, a reception line—these are all a part of the complex job of Dr. Trogon. Dr. and Mrs. Trogon are both frequently seen on campus attending banquets, cycling, promoting TSC or simply chatting with students.

Not old enough—

Not old enough for what?

To hear a fish scream?

To listen with my heart?

To touch the yellow sky?

To vote—But I still try!

To live—then let me die!

To be alone—then don't leave!

To love—then why do I?

Reflections in Spanish

A Book of Mediterranean poets ...
The light of the Sea ...
A worn wooden desk in Central Texas ...
English with a Spanish accent or Spanish with an English accent ... Words without the meaning mean little ...
The desire to know—but knowing only secondhand. Why? ...
"Es beautiful the sea" when dixie cups litter the gulf? ...
The feeling of the whole light and heat in their bodies ...
Greek cultures from the light through olive trees ...
Have you ever seen a clear blue sea? ...
Half asleep. Half awake and the sound of the sea.

I Believed it
All didn't you?

To Love

to love is to know
what it is to live—
and what it is to die
When love is done.

to love is to understand the selfish heart and to love more because you understand.

to love is to smile at a star and to cry at a word, and after tears, to smile again to love is to care,

and care, and after pain
to care still.

to love is to know
the joy of a smile
and the thrill of a first kiss

to love is to know the moon, and to see the stars at daybreak.

to love is to see
with your eyes and to interpret with your heart

to love is to give, and give and when nothing remains, to give still more.

to love is to search for love, and to be disappointed and to search again.

to love is to laugh for him, and in your heart, to cry for yourself.

to love is to see and to believe what you see

to love is to know what it is to love and
what it is to hate
in the same moment.
